

NATHANIEL EMMONS

Nathaniel has more than ten years of experience as an analyst specializing in competitor strategy assessment, R&D innovation, and market entry analysis. At Fuld + Company he leads the Energy + Oil practice. Given the disruptive nature of this industry, him and his team face challenging business problems which require extreme assessment and due supervision. Nathaniel is adept at leveraging scenario planning with secondary and primary research to help clients gain actionable insights and strategic advice. He has lead client workshops focused on analyzing competitor strategies for growth enablement and new market entries and has worked in multiple services and sectors.

EXPERTISE

Prior to joining Fuld + Company, Nathaniel worked as a political analyst at the US Embassy in Jakarta, Indonesia, focusing on regional security issues and Indonesian foreign policy. He holds an active Secret security clearance from the US Department of State.

EDUCATION

Nathaniel received his M.A. in International Relations from the Fletcher School at Tufts University. At Fletcher, he did extensive work on international business strategy, cyber security, US foreign policy, and terrorism.